

A Walk to the Neighbouring Farm

“There is no teacher like Mother nature for children of all ages” William Wordsworth.

Myna's had their first experience of exploration beyond school with a walk to a neighbouring farm.

A 'Circle Time' was a regular practice to help children understand the objective of the visit and good practices to be observed during it.

Excitement was in the air as children looked forward to experiencing something new. Their loud farewell to the teacher's saying, "Hum toh ghumne ja rahe hai", showed their boundless energy and exuberance.

Upon reaching the gate, children greeted the security guard with cheerful greetings - "Good mornings" and "Namaste".

Children were welcomed by OREO who is the watch dog of the farm house.

The next stop at the farm house was the rabbit cage. Children were excited to see them and observed their movements carefully.

Children were taken to the cow shed, where they saw cows and met their caretakers.

Children also saw a chopper used to cut fresh grass and vegetables for the animals.

We moved into the field to observe the vegetable garden and saw fresh spinach and many trees bearing fruits like guava, chikoo, mango, tomato and lemon. Children came across a variety of flora and fauna offering an opportunity to observe. They marvelled at the mango tree, exclaiming, "Arey yeh to kitne sare mango hai!" Children picked up fruits and leaves fallen on the ground. They did not pluck anything from the trees.

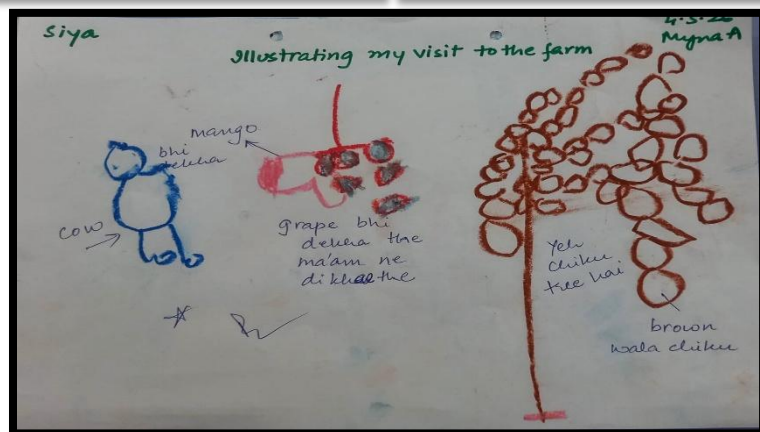

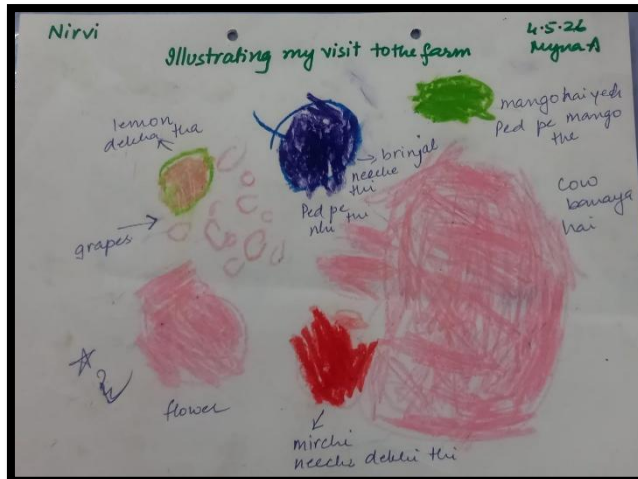

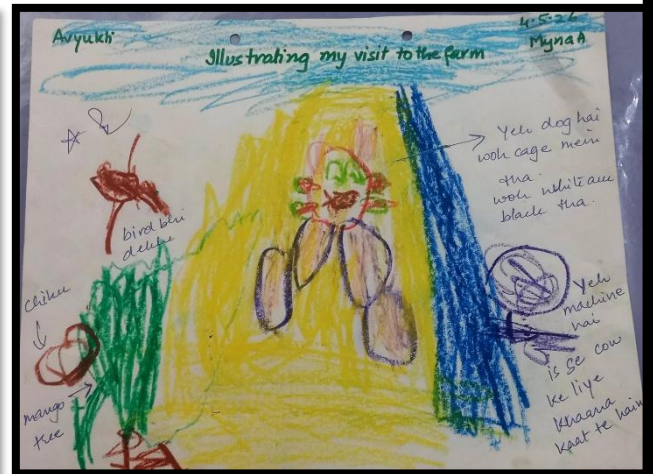

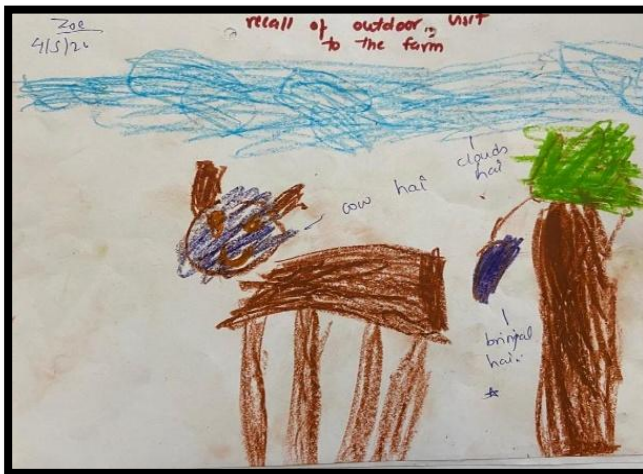

While moving forward, the large and refreshing swimming pool in the heart of the farmhouse left the children spellbound. Looking at the swimming pool, they immediately said, "Ma'am hum yahan swimming karein ge?"

Expressing gratitude, we thanked the farm owner and other caretakers before leaving.

During the trip children observed and followed traffic rules like walking to their left. Before crossing the road everyone looked to the left and right.

The activity was concluded with a recall. Children illustrated their observations very beautifully and shared their experience of the first "Day Out".

Warm Regards,
Rosy Verma.
